Reportedly the cause of the explosion is unknown and the accident is under investigation by State Fire Marshal Don Rogers of Lewiston and State Electrical Inspector Blake MacKay.

Damage to the plant was minimal due to the quick response of employees, who extinguished the resulting fire before members of the Woodstock fire department arrived shortly after 7:30 a.m.

Sent in by Viva Whitman:

Not too good weather most of this past week but could have been worse too. No matter what the weather, there is always something waiting to be done. Russell has been busy trying to get ready in case we get some of that white stuff that needs plowing. It has been a tedious job, as either this or that didn't want to work right. Little jobs sometimes turn into big ones, and that's what happened this time.

Tuesday, we had to go to Norway, and then on to Fryeburg. Doctor's visits always take longer than we plan. Usually have to wait no matter who you go to, so take along something to do while waiting.

Wednesday morning, we had an early morning visitor. Verna Swan needed more eggs for her pie making, so called on us for a few minutes while up this way. It was my day for pie making too.

Thursday, the big day, Russell, Peggy and I headed for Lewiston to spend Thanksgiving with my daughter and husband, Mr. and

Safety Tip of the Week—
Winter Roads—Motorists please beware, winter is here. Remember bridges freeze before roads but the road surface can be very icy in spots. Drive with care—Start early and drive with care. The life you save could be your own.

Mrs. Michael Woolf, Had a grand feast as usual, and a safe trip home. Not as much traffic as I expected there would be.

Friday, we had to go to Auburn to get a part for the tractor, so went into Lewiston also where I got my glasses straightened, and we made a short stop at my daughters to top it off.

Saturday was a busy day for Russell, as the part he got for his tractor just didn't want to cooperate and go into place, but patience and perseverance won out, and the tractor is ready to do it's job when called upon.

Sunday was busy, but mostly at home. Peggy did go to West Bethel in the afternoon to visit her daughter's family, the Emersons. In the evening, Paul Billings and mother, from Bryant Pond, came for a short while, to hash over all the doings that are taking place at the Bear River Grange Hall at Newry Corners.

Dec. 2 is our regular meeting, preceded by a pot luck supper. Dec. 4, don't miss the Classic Bluegrass music show followed by dancing. This gets underway at 7:30 p. m. Refreshments on sale between the show and dancing.

Dec. 12 is a really big day at the Grange Hall so don't miss it. There will be a Flea Market from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. with many different crafts featured. New and used items from many tables will give you the chance to finish that Christmas shopping. Refreshments on sale at lunch, but leave room for a nice public supper of beef stew and home made pies, with other goodies to make a terrific meal at low prices. The supper starts at 6 p. m. and goes until 7. Then the big finale of the day. The Northern Lights Singers will perform their first Christmas program for free. They always do a wonderful show, so be sure you are there. It will be the Christmas Story in narration and song, something you haven't heard the likes of. May even be a sing-a-long of all your favorite carols, so come on folks and have a great time and get into the Christmas Spirit. It will do your hearts good in these troubled times.

UMO Skywatch

(Prepared by University of Maine at Orono Planetary staff.)

For those of you who have a deep interest in the moon, December is one of those rare months when there are two full moons.

The first one, on Nov. 30/Dec. 1, is relatively uneventful and very much like every other full moon, but the second one on Dec. 29/30 is far more interesting. With this full phase comes one of the more fascinating events in the sky, a total lunar eclipse. At 3:53 a. m. Dec. 30 the full moon will begin its passage through the shadow of the Earth. At 6:33 a. m. the moon will be totally eclipsed and then slowly will begin to reappear. A keen observer may notice that before and after totality the moon will take on a reddish hue. (It is difficult to predict to what degree it will be reddened).

Two conditions are needed for a lunar eclipse. The first and most obvious one is that the Sun, Earth and Moon must be in a straight line (in that order). This occurs every full moon. However there isn't a lunar eclipse every full moon because the second condition, which is usually not met, is that for the moon to pass thru the Earth's shadow, it must be in the same plane as the Earth and Sun.

The same condition must apply for solar eclipses, (the moon passes between the Earth and Sun), although in this case, the order of alignment must be Sun, Moon, Earth. Many times lunar and solar eclipses occur in pairs, and that is the case this month when on Dec. 15 there will be a solar eclipse visible in Europe, North-east Africa and Western Asia.

Solar eclipses occur more often than lunar eclipses but while most everyone has seen a solar eclipse very few have seen lunar eclipses. Why is this so? At any given time half the Earth can see the moon. So, whenever a lunar eclipse occurs, there is a 50-50 chance you will be able to see it.

On the other hand, the shadow of the moon onto the Earth is usually only about 30-40 miles wide so only a small geographic area is able to see an eclipse of the Sun. Furthermore, solar eclipses last for minutes but lunar eclipses last for hours.

In winter, full moons make the sky brighter and bluer than full moons of the summer because of the reflection of moonlight by snow back into the atmosphere.

Letters to the Editor

I would like to extend the invitation to all friends of Adult and Community Education to attend the Christmas Learning Fair to be held at Telstar on Wednesday, Dec. 8, from 6 to 8:30. This is a fun, family evening starting with a pot-luck supper, continuing with exhibits and demonstrations from fall term classes and by community groups, and concluding with a delightful Christmas Concert from the Adult Community Chorus. The Fair gives those involved in learning a chance to show what they have done, and allows those who have not been involved in classes to decide what they might like to take up. It is possible to attend the exhibits and concert without coming to the supper. Those attending the supper are asked to bring a salad, hot dish or dessert to share.

The Adult and Community Education Advisory Council has developed a survey form to use in gathering suggestions for improvement of S.A.D 44's program. These forms will be available at the Fair, and will be used throughout the next few months. In the meantime, anyone with suggestions to offer for courses, or one-night programs, should relay them to me at the Adult and Community Education office at Telstar, 824-2136.

The Advisory Council and I are very grateful for the enthusiasm of teachers and learners in contributing to the lively character of our Adult and Community Education program, from the adult high school courses to general enrichment. The Learning Fair is our chance to celebrate, and to extend good wishes to all for the holiday season.

Sincerely,
Cathy Newell
Director of Adult & Community Education

ADDED DIMENSION FOR GOLFERS AT THE BETHEL INN

Good news, golfers. If anyone has looked between the fourth and fifth fairway of the Bethel Inn's golf course, one would have noticed that work has been underway for the Inn's new driving range. Thanks to the efforts of Don Bennett and his crew, the land was initially cleared enabling Bryce Yates to bulldoze and landscape the area. The land will be seeded in the spring for use during the summer season.

This has not been a small task as the dimensions of the driving range are 300 yards long by 150 yards wide.

This will be the only driving range within a 40 mile radius of the Bethel area. It will be open to the public under the direction of Pete Matthews, Golf Pro for the 1983 season. Pete Matthews and his wife, Brenda, will be joining the staff of the Inn in May, 1983. Former Golf Pro at the Paris Hill Country Club and a Registered PGA Golf Pro, Pete's responsibilities will include not only the supervision of the Inn's nine hole golf course, but also an added dimension, the Inn's new driving range.

table of Sernv Products. Knit Goods will be under the direction of Marion Eyster and Marion Ladd and Evelyn Enman will be in charge of the Jewelry table. Louise Morton and Gladys Bartlett will be selling goodies of food and candy. Fancy Work will be staffed by Helen Goodine, Catherine Penney, Nancy Lyons and Barbara Ellingwood.

Walking With Jesus Christ

The bloom has left the rose—once that which sparkled is now, if at all—a glimmer and hope is far down the road.

Jesus said: "I am the way, the truth, and the life..." "Enter in at the narrow gate—hard is the way, which leadeth unto life..." Yes, hard is the way and many are they that once held onto the hem of His garment have let go—"forsaken the right way and are gone astray, following the way of Balaam, who loved the wages of unrighteousness." 2 Peter 2:15.

Is it possible that—Romans 3:20—the door was only partially opened and the radiance of Christ but a temporary or partial blessing as the one seeking slammed it shut and is not now a follower of Christ?

Can it be that without commitment to Christ it is impossible to contend for the faith leaving ourselves open to condemnation—turning from the grace of God and denying our Lord His rightful place in our lives?

If we are not committed to Christ—followers of Him—talking and walking with Him—daily and even moment by moment, letting Him be the Lord of our lives—we had better consider our salvation.

The Bible says: My sheep hear—listen to my voice, (Jesus)—I know them, and they follow me. I give them eternal life... We're crossing a narrow bridge here—read again: "My sheep follow me."

Can it be as by our own choice—having entered the narrow gate we held onto it, not closing it behind us and instead decided to return to the way of the world forsaking Christ who offers us joy, peace and eternal life?

We had better give serious thought about our love for Christ—if we do love Him we should declare it openly—bring our children to Sunday School and Church—we should love our brothers and sisters in Christ—join in the fellowship of these, the saints. If we find that our love for Christ falls short—We had better get right with God and do it now—on our knees asking forgiveness and spiritual guidance.

Psalm 1: Blessed is the man who walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of the sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful. But his delight is in the law of the Lord; and in His law doth he meditate day and night."

In my news items last week I goofed. It was Earl (Spike) Noyes who substituted for our mail carrier, Tom Redman. I knew better, but we were hunting for my husband's lost hearing aid, so my mind must have been elsewhere. He found it, right where it fell off the table and got hung up on the electric cord to the light over the kitchen table. What a relief.

Sincere sympathy is extended to the family of Wilbur (Skip) Chamberlain, who passed away on Nov. 27, after a long illness. He was a good neighbor.

Doris Lawrence received a letter from Laura Kalinowski stating that she had pneumonia. Her address is: Mrs. Laura Kalinowski, 9 Ames Hollow Road, Portland, Conn. 06480. Let's send her a card of cheer.

Mrs. Rhoda Vatcher spent the long holiday week end with her children in Massachusetts. She returned home Nov. 30.

Mr. and Mrs. James Abbott and Harlan Abbott spent Thanksgiving

Greenwood City

— Mrs. Colista Morgan, Corres. —

The moon rose round and mellow, a great orange cheese and beyond Patch Mountain I saw it from my bedroom window about midnight, slow-moving and majestic. It already had climbed the mountains, sparkled the lakes and ponds, and drenched the landscape with its light. I looked out across the water to the dark hills and the lonely solitude. I watched it drop from sight behind Patch.

Sometime not long after almost magically the air was white with drifting flakes. Down they came, settling on branches, into crevices in bark, on lichen covered rocks. The whiteness spread and sealed the earth.

Winter has come and the wild living world is ready for it. The few muskrat houses are high and strong, warm within, but frozen dome outside. The frogs and turtles are deep in the mud of the pond. The rabbits move in the thickets or crouch among the swamp grasses.

Yes, it is time for cold weather. Hunting season is over. Now I will get out my snowshoes for deeper snow or I'll roam as I can. Maybe I'll get to the swamps and the snow filled woods. There will be things to see where lives are being lived. The fox, the deer, the birds and I will wander through winter, as we wandered through spring, summer, and fall-looking, listening, prying, and ever happy with this glorious earth.

Only Heaven is Given Away by Rose Darrough I bought a gay-datched little house upon a sunny hill. Where Heaven is very close to earth and all the world is still. It took my savings, every cent, although the cost was small. But, oh, the lovely things I bought, and paid for not at all.

The sleepy valleys that below, in tawny sunshine lie, The oaks that sprawl across their slopes and climb to meet the sky. Stray winds that sing of other things than those our eyes may see.

Blue wisps of mist and raveled clouds that, fleeing beckon me. White suns of mad-glad April, October's wine to quaff. On crystal winter mornings my hearth fires crackling laugh.

The silent stars that march at night so close above my head, The sound of raindrops on the roof when I was snug in bed. For joist and beam and shingles, gay I spent my savings small. But on the things God gave me He put no price at all.

Northwest Bethel

— Clarice Gibson, Corres. —

Thanksgiving week was dark and drizzly until Wednesday afternoon. Wednesday night we did have heavy winds but nothing like, I guess, Hawaii had. Wilfred called us up and told us he was stationed on one of the islands that was hit. The base apparently was not in too bad shape but they had no electricity. Hawaii had been so long without high winds they just weren't prepared for it.

Tuesday was a beautiful day for traveling. George, Frank and I left before light for Hampton Falls, N. H., to have dinner with Frank's mother, Thirza, sister and husband, Roberta and Eddie Pevear. Until we hit the pike the traffic was not too heavy but then it really got heavy. As Frank said, "What a lot of people are going to eat turkey!"

In the afternoon we called Jim and family to see if they wanted us to stop in on our way home. They invited us to supper and as two of their friends, think Don and Dan from Springville, Me., were coming for a Thanksgiving supper, we were doubly stuffed. As Thanksgiving was the only really good day all week it made it nice for travelers.

"PROJECT GRADUATION"IN PLANNING STAGES

The S.A.D. 44 Cadet team has begun its plans for "Project Graduation". The group's aim is to provide a chemical and alcohol free evening for the class of 1983's graduation celebration.

The parents of the graduating seniors are being contacted by members of the Telstar Student Council. The Council representatives are informing parents about the possible alternatives and seeking their support and assistance necessary for making such a project a reality.

The graduating seniors will be receiving a questionnaire within the next week. The questionnaire will make it possible for the students to make suggestions concerning the activity they would like to be involved in for graduation night.

The Cadet team feels confident that parental and class support and suggestions will be very valuable in selecting how the class of '83 spends its graduation evening.

Fund raising will begin to cover costs of "Project Graduation" as soon as the specific activity for that special night in June is determined.

If everyone worked as hard as he described it, there would be no undue work.

The next time you are in the vicinity of the Town Office, look over the doorway at the new sign. Joe Westleigh designed, painted and hung it on a "trial" basis to see what observers thought of it. We feel that it enhances the historic western facade of the Cole Block. Stop in and give us your opinion.
